The Bells of San Blas.

A sad interest (says the Atlantic Monthly) attaches to this poem, as being the last Longfellow wrote. The MS. bears date 12th March, 1882.

What say the bells of San Blas To the ships that southward pass From the harbor of Mazatlan? To them it is nothing more Than the sound of surf on the shore-Nothing more to master or man.

But to me, a dreamer of dreams. To whom what is and what seems Are often one and the same-The bells of San Blas to me Have a strange, wild melody, And are something more than a name

For bells are the voice of the church : They have tones that touch and search The hearts of young and old ; One sound to all, yet each Lends a meaning to their speech And the meaning is manifold.

They are a voice of the past, Of an age that is fading fast-Of a power austere and grand, When the flag of Spain unfurled Its folds o'er this western world, And the priest was lord of the land. The chapel that once looked down

On the little seaport town Has crumbled into the dust And on oaken beams below The bells swing to and fro, And are green with mould and rust. " Is, then, the old faith dead."

They say, " and in its stead Is some new fatth proclaimed, That we are forced to remain Naked to sun and rain, Unsheltered and ashamed ! " Ones, in our tower aloof,

We rang over wall and roof warnings and our complaint And round about us there The white doves filled the air, Like the white souls of the saints. The saints ! Ah, have they grown

Forgetful of their own ! fare they salesp, or dead, Lest open to the sky helr ruined missions lie, No longer tenanted? bu, bring us back once more

The vanquished days of yore, When the world with faith was filled back the fervid zeal. sarts of fire and steel, "he hands that believe and build. Then from our tower again We will gind over land and main

Our voices of command, be exited kings who return their thrones, and the people learn That the priest is lord of the land !" O, bells of San Blas, in vain

Ye call back the past again ; The past is deaf to your prayer ! Out of the shadows of night The world rolls into light ; It is daybreak everywhere.

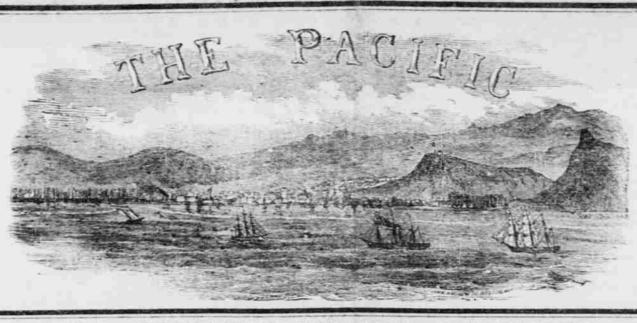

The Late Mr. Covington.

The following is a copy of an expression of sympathy tendered to the wife and family of the late Mr. Richard Covington by his friends and associates in the Survey Office :- "Hono-Iulu, Oct 26, 1882. Whereas it has pleased from us our friend, Richard Covington, whom we have long and intimately known as a man of sterling merit, honest, sincere, diligent, and in every way deserving our respect and admiration : And whereas we have all been associated with him in our daily work for many months during which we have witnessed from day to day his evenness of temper, amiability, cheerfulness, and apatient endurance of pain and trial Therefore we desire herewith to express our appreciation of his many genial and noble qualities, to tender to his wife and family our profound heartfelt sympathy, and to respectfully assure them that we also share in the loss they mourn, -W. D. Alexander, Cartis J. Lvons, George, Gresly Jackson, J. F. Brown, J. S. Emerson, George H. Barton, E. D. Baldwin, T. Perryman.

A SIMPLE COSTRIVANCE, -Amateur artists will welcome a neat invention enabling them to produce correct drawings of flowers, fruit, and small objects, generally known as the skingraph. It is a very simple affair, and anyone can construct it. A mirror is laid flat upon the table, and on a hinge at one end of it is fastened a sheet of plain glass, fastened by parallel links to a second sheet similar to it. When anything is to be drawn the hinge is be turned until an angle of about 45° is formed between the plain glass and the mirror. The object is then plac d on the lower sheet of plain glass, the upper sheet raised about three or four inches, and a sheet of drawing paper laid upon it. A light from a candle placed at the upper end of the mirror is thrown through the lower sheet of plain glass, reflecting the flowers or other objects on to the paper, whence their outlines can be easily traced. Accuracy is thus ensured so far as shape and outline go without difficulty. For designers of fancy cards, illustrations of books, etc., the skingraph will come in very handy.

EMIGRATION TO THE UNITED STATES,-A few facts concerning imigration are worth considering, and ought to be interesting. During the year ending June last 789,003 immigrants arrived at Atlantic Ports, besides many omitted from this reckoning. This is a greater number by 200,000 than in any previous year. For the three years ending 1880, 1881 and 1882 the arrivals were 1.915,691, or nearly as many as for eight years previous, and about one-fifth of the whole number during the period from 1860 to 1880. About one-third of the immigration of last year was from Germany and Austria. The last year was from Germany and Austria. The greatest part of the Austrian immigrants were siways on hand. German by race and language. From Germany alone about a quarter of a million of new settlers came. England sent between 8,000 and 9,000 more than Ireland. Nearly 100,000 came from Canada, A large proportion of them passed through Canada, and were composed of varions nationalities. S. F. Real Estate Circular. DUTY ON HAWAHAN SUGAR,-The question of assessing duty upon sugar imported from the Hawaiian Islands is again before the Treasury Department on a report from the Collector of Customs at New York. In the case in point-which is regarded as a test case—the Collector had assessed duty on a cargo of sugar from the Hawatian Islands to the amount of nearly $200,000. Protests were filed against this assessment on the ground that the sugar was exempt from duty under the reciprocity treaty with the Hawaiian Islands. It was contended on the other hand that the sugar in question did not come wit in the terms of the treaty, as it was of a different class from those made on the Islands at the time the treaty was ratified. In his report on the subject the Collector of Customs states that the case involves questions of fact that he cannot undertake to decide, It is probable that the question will be referred the Collector at Sah Francisco, in order to determine whether the sugar in question is of a class to be included within the terms of the treaty.
